

Clarity Coaching Private Session Plans &

Fees An investment in yourself is ultimately more important than your investments in savings accounts, real estate or even retirement funds.

Why more important?

Our perceptions of ourselves, the people and world around us are primary determinants in the peace, abundance and goodness we experience in any arena of our lives. The time and resources invested in our personal awareness and development brings great and increasing rewards and opportunities to every aspect of our lives - physical, emotional, professional, organizational & spiritual.

What are the benefits of purchasing a Clarity Coaching Plan? Essentially, it's the difference between learning how to fish and just buying a fish at the market. Self-inquiry is a simple and very powerful process; one that can easily become a natural element of your daily life without the regular support of a coach in a relatively short time; in as little as 3 to 6 months. Self-inquiry facilitates autonomy and inner trust, rather than the traditional reliance on the external for answers, direction and validation.

With consistency and continuity, old patterns of confusion and indecision are relinquished, and you empower yourself to live a life sourced in choice rather than resistance, freedom rather than fear, understanding rather than reaction. When self-inquiry becomes a habit, the velocity and regularity of stressful challenges slow down considerably. Not only that, one actually finds value and new opportunity in them when they do.
